Slack & Co. Contracting, Inc.'s New Office Building Wins Project of the Year Award

Houston, TX—On January 29, the Houston Chapter of the American Subcontractors Association (ASA) held the 13th Annual Excellence in Construction Awards ceremony. Slack & Co. Contracting, Inc.'s new office building and maintenance facility (built by Construction Manager Linbeck) won the Project of the Year Award in the Projects Under $5 Million category.

The ASA-Houston Chapter presents Excellence in Construction Awards in eight categories, including Project of the Year (over $15 million, $5-15 million and under $5 million), General Contractor of the Year, Architectural/Engineering Firm of the Year, Project Manager of the Year, Project Superintendent of the Year, and Safety Director of the Year.

Winners of Excellence in Construction Awards are first nominated by chapter members. Once nominations are submitted, top nominees in each category are announced to members for their final vote. Winners are then announced at the Excellence in Construction Awards gala.

"The ASA-Houston Chapter's Excellence in Construction Awards are unique because winners are selected by their peers rather than a panel of judges," says Slack & Co. President Jim Slack, Jr. "As the project owner, I am honored that my fellow members selected our project for this prestigious award, and I congratulate Linbeck on a job well done."

Also nominated in the Project of the Year Under $5 Million category were: Centre @ Post Oak (JE Dunn South Central, Inc.); Energy Park (Jerdon Enterprises, LP); Foster Family YMCA (JE Dunn South Central, Inc.); and Chemistry Building renovation at Texas A&M University (SpawGlass Construction Corp).

A complete list of winners of the ASA-Houston Chapter's 2009 Excellence in Construction Awards can be found on the organization's Web site (www.asahouston.org) by clicking on the special events page.
